FINAL ACTION ON NRA IS NEAR

Mosquito War Is Ready to Begin, Carrigan Reports

Missouri Pacific Railroad Furnishing 1,800 Gallons of Oil

COOPERATION URGED

Public Is Asked to Report Breeding Places in Hope

By DR. P. B. CARRIGAN

The Missouri Pacific railroad gave the town of Hope 1,800 gallons of oil to be used here in the malarial control work.

The labor for this work is furnished by the federal government through the ERA office. There are four inspectors looking for breeding places of the mosquito. These men are keeping a close check on all infectious places around town and make regular reports to the office, which are kept on file there.

There inspectors give instructions to the men who spray the oil in the breeding places of the mosquitoes, and are working each ward in our town separately. The work in all wards is about completed now, and the spraying squads are ready to start their work.

They are watching all premises—going into the yards and alleys, looking for these breeding places, which are always where there is standing water.

Any tin cans or hollow trees, where the water will stand, will harbor mosquitoes, and the citizens of Hope can help with this work if each family will empty cans, and any containers and see that they are turned upside down so they will not hold water.

Another important thing is where the ice boxes drain under the house, there should be a pipe to run the water into buckets, which should be emptied regularly every day or so.

Many Breeding Places
There has been more rain than usual the past two months, which will naturally cause mosquitoes, and it is very important that every family of our town cooperate with us to get rid of the mosquito.

On account of the continued rains, the work of spraying the oil around the town has been delayed as well as the drainage work, and it will be of great help, if the citizens will report any breeding places to the physician in charge of the work, so that the inspectors can promptly get these reports.

No doubt, we will have a quantity of mosquitoes this season, and if something isn't done quickly they will start breeding in different places around town. We have already had a few complaints and if all will cooperate with us in this work, we can blot out the mosquito.

Ask Inspection
If some one person in each block in Hope would inspect the premises of the homes in that particular block, and report any breeding places, this would be a great help.

About 25 per cent of the mosquitoes are malarial carriers. There are a great number that do not convey malaria, but we can't risk this.

The mosquito has to come in contact with a human being, who has malaria before the malarial germ can be carried to another person.

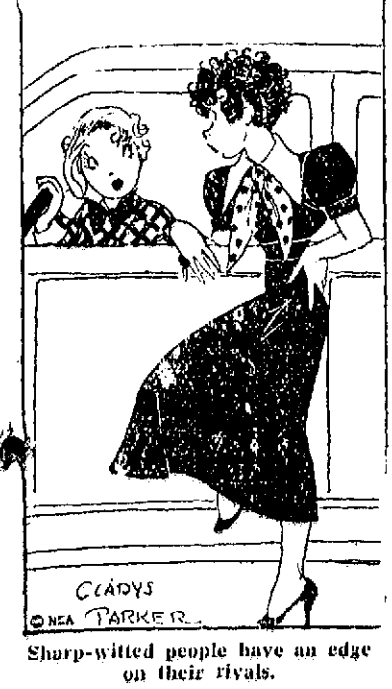

The inspectors are anxious to go over the entire area of our town and the only way to get rid of the mosquito is to eliminate the harboring places. Our citizens can aid in this work by fumigating with sulphur any harboring places around their premises.

We have 10 or 12 men to do the drainage in different parts of town, where this work is needed, and it will be a great help to us if anyone who

Biloxi Host to Governors

Futrell Attends Governor's Meet

Senator Norrell Will Act as Chief Executive of State

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Acting Governor Norrell issued a pardon Thursday to James Gunter, inmate of the state reformatory at Pine Bluff. Acting Governor Norrell said Gunter was an "innocent boy who had been committed to prison." The lad was sent to the reformatory on a burglary charge.

Futrell in Mississippi

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The state had a new governor Thursday as senator W. F. Norrell took over the executive duties in the absence from the state of Governor J. M. Futrell and Lieutenant Governor Lee Cantrell.

It was the second time this year he had served as acting governor. On the former occasion, about two months ago, House Speaker Harve Thorn contested his right to hold the office when two superior officers were away. The attorney general held, however, that the senate president was next in line.

Governor Futrell deferred appointment of six members of the game and fish commission, seven on the park commission and two on the textbook commission as he departed for the conference of governors at Biloxi, Miss. Mrs. Futrell, Mr. and Mrs. Cantrell and other officials accompanied the executive.

The governor plans to consider filling the 15 vacancies when he returns Monday. Mrs. Ernie Maddox, his private secretary, said.

An act of 1935 increasing the personnel of the game and fish commission from five to seven becomes effective Thursday but the governor had 10 days from that date to make the appointments. G. B. Beauchamp of Paragould is the holdover member and six others will be appointed.

Terms of the seven members of the park commission have expired and the six-year terms of Mrs. Joseph O'Leary of Walnut Ridge and Garnett Brumfield of Hot Springs as members of the textbook commission expired Tuesday.

Grady McCall, secretary of the game and fish commission, has called its first meeting for next Monday.

To Consider NRA Plan
BILLOXI, Miss.—(AP)—Immediate state action to revive the NRA was urged upon the nation's governors Wednesday by Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina on the eve of the opening of the 27th annual governors' conference Thursday.

"It is my hope," he said, "that out of this conference we will be able to evolve a plan to have the executives of the states call for voluntary pledges from employers, with a definite and unified course of action to be followed by the labor departments of each state until such time as appropriate state legislation can be enacted."

Bootleg Whisky Is Ured Scrub Streets

HOT SPRINGS—(AP)—Bootleg liquor at least is a good thing for scrubbing alleys, in the opinion of police officers here. A decided drop in the value of the commodity was reported after a large quantity of bootleg whisky was put to this use in a campaign to stamp out illicit liquor traffic.

Bulletins

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—(AP)—Two members of a truck were killed and two passengers escaped injury when a northbound bus crashed into a parked vegetable truck at Englewood, near here Thursday.

FOREST CITY—(AP)—Mrs. L. W. Strum, 50, of Colt community, near here, was accidentally killed Thursday evening when a pistol in the hands of her husband went off as he was removing it from under his pillow.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Attorney General's office advised R. L. Cheatham, Franklin county clerk, Thursday that the law requires the county tax assessor to maintain an office at the county seat, and that he or deputy must remain in the office during "reasonable" office hours, between the first Monday in January and until April 10.

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—War-weary soldiers in Chicos' bloody wastes were jubilant Thursday as word spread along Bolivian and Paraguayan fronts that hostilities would halt at noon Friday.

Auto Owners Must Purchase License or Answer in Municipal Court

Chief Police John W. Ridgill Thursday warned delinquent city auto license payers that they would be summoned to municipal court Monday morning.

Chief Ridgill was making a check on Thursday on automobiles that did not obtain a city tag.

He urged those who have already purchased tags to display their license where they may be seen by officers.

Gurdon Youth Held After Fatal Accident

GURDON, Ark.—(AP)—Chief of police J. H. Sheppard said Wednesday night that a 17-year-old youth, who he described as the son of A. G. Robinson, laundry owner, is charged with manslaughter in connection with the fatal injury of Mrs. A. L. Culp here Tuesday.

Chief Sheppard said that the youth was taken into custody following the death of Mrs. Culp but that he was held over to the grand jury being released under $500 bond.

Mrs. Culp died in a Prescott hospital soon after she was struck by a truck on a Gurdon sidewalk. Officers said the truck was driven by the Robinson youth.

Ruth Ellington to Play Monday

New York Orchestra Is Obtained for Elks Dance Here

Music makes the dance, and when Ruth Ellington brings her orchestra to Hope next Monday night, June 17, dance lovers of this section will be afforded an opportunity to listen and dance to one of the most popular dance orchestras in America.

Their progress may be attributed in no small measure to the popularity of Robert Clark, featured master of ceremonies. Wherever the band has played, Ruth Ellington and Robert Clark have left a lot of admirers.

Dancers of this territory will be privileged to listen and dance to one of the first of the negro name orchestras of the nation. Just such names as Don Redman, Cab Calloway, Duke Ellington lead the parade of negro bands of the present day, so did Jim Europe, Louis Armstrong, and Ruth Ellington lead the parade of negro orchestras for years. In fact, most of the present day negro names obtained their start in the bands led by one of the above leaders.

Ruth Ellington and her orchestra comes to Hope with a record of achievement that equals any negro band in America. They know their music and they will entertain and thrill those who will be privileged to listen to their program of music and entertainment.

Led by one of the best negro showmen, playing a versatile program of American and Continental tunes, Ruth Ellington's orchestra, featuring Robert Clark, promises entertainment for all who come to listen and dance to their music.

State Druggists Elect Officials

J. E. Berry to Succeed John P. Cox as President

JONESBORO, Ark.—(AP)—J. E. Berry of Smackover was elected president of the Arkansas Pharmaceutical Association Wednesday succeeding John P. Cox of Hope.

Other new officers named at the convention in its record day session were Charles Dana Gibson, Hope, vice-president; Guy L. Elkins, Booneville, vice-president; Troy Churchman, North Little Rock, treasurer; Earl B. Little, Little Rock, secretary; and W. H. Griffin, Heber Springs, sergeant at arms.

Waley's to Seek Freedom Under Stiff Kidnap Law

In Surprise Move They Plead Not Guilty to Abduction

SEARCH FOR MAHAN

Couple Removed by Plane to Tacoma From Salt Lake City

TACOMA, Wash.—(AP)—Temporarily escaping from Washington's new death law for kidnapers, Harmon M. Waley and his wife, Margaret, fought for their freedom Thursday from the less stringent federal kidnap act for the abduction of George Weyerhaeuser, timber fortune heir.

Even as they nonchalantly pleaded "not guilty," department of justice agents pressed a search in Montana and Canada for William Mahan, bank robber and former convict, charged as the third member of the "snatch" gang.

Apparently the Waley's hope to beat Washington's death law as they crossed the state line, which makes the crime a federal offense.

Plead Not Guilty
TACOMA, Wash.—(AP)—Harmon M. Waley and his wife, brought to Tacoma by airplane from Salt Lake City, pleaded not guilty late Wednesday to two federal charges in the $200,000 kidnaping of George Weyerhaeuser, a crime department of justice agents said they have confessed.

While the hunt for William Mahan, ex-convict supposedly implicated by the Waley's, went on from Butte, Mont., to Canada on a new set of "clues," the suspected couple formally denied guilt of both "Lindbergh law" and mail fraud charges.

Bond was set at $100,000 each on the mail fraud charge, but no bail was set in the Lindbergh law case by United States Commissioner H. G. Fitch, before whom they were taken under heavy guard.

The Waley's were spirited away in separate motor cars to some undisclosed place immediately after the court session, which lasted less than 20 minutes.

Agents declined to comment on reports that they had been moved to Seattle for safe keeping.

Calm at Hearing
They took the court proceedings in a matter-of-fact way. After waiting preliminary hearings they kissed each other and the attentive 19-year-old Mrs. Waley tilted her head over her ex-convict husband's shoulder.

A federal agent lighted a cigarette for Mrs. Waley after the hearing. She laughed as she awaited removal from the courtroom and separation from her husband. Both concealed their faces, though, as they ran the gauntlet of news cameras.

Mrs. Waley was first to plead. She faced the commissioner while her husband chewed gum and slouched nearby.

Has No Lawyer
Pitch read the complaint and asked her if she had an attorney.

"No," she answered, "if it's all the same to the court, I'll waive a hearing and plead not guilty."

Both the Waley's, who had been represented as working with the government agents toward a solution of the $200,000 ransom kidnaping secured amused.

Waley also waived preliminary hearings.

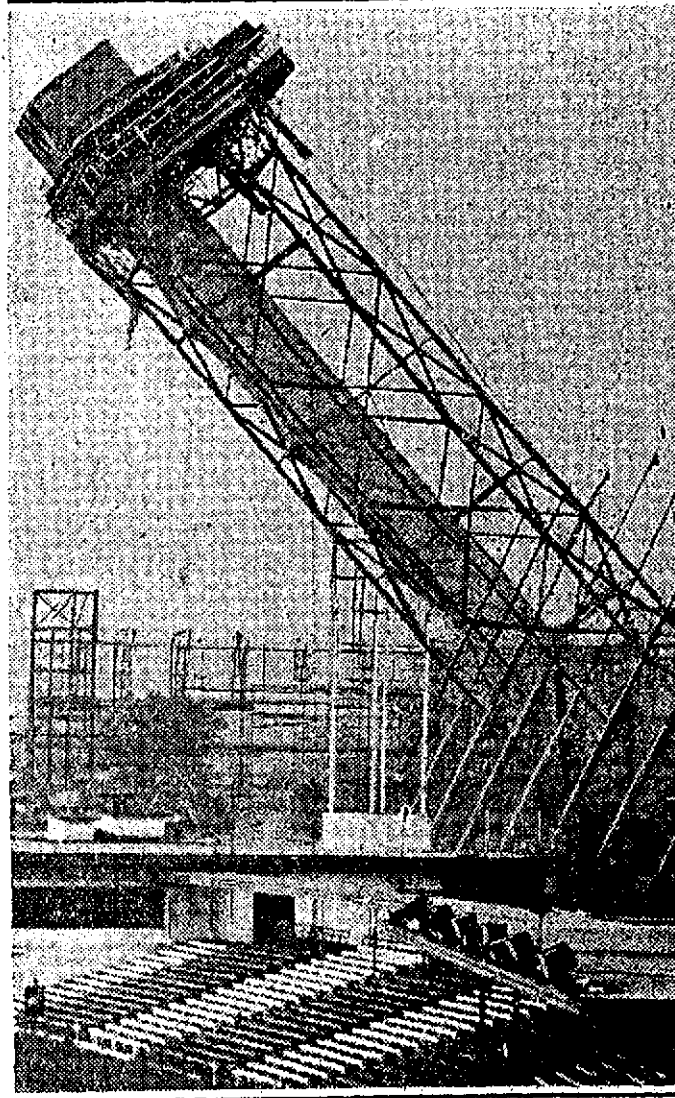

The pleas of not guilty were puzzling to outsiders in view of Justice Department reports that the Waley's had confessed, implicated Mahan and led officers to a cache of more than $92,000 of the ransom money in the mountains near Salt Lake City.

Arkansas Rivers Reported Falling

Three Arrested in New Liquor Raids

Officers 'Shakedown' Fulton and McNab Communities Thursday

A white man and two negroes were held Thursday after officers raided alleged bootleggers of Fulton and McNab.

Another white man, said by Sheriff Jim Bearden to be Arthur Barnes, escaped at the scene of a still six miles east of McNab where officers found 15 gallons of whisky and 200 gallons of mash.

The still, a 60-gallon capacity outfit, was destroyed. Barnes, officers said, escaped under pistol fire.

Later in the day, Jake Simmons, negro of McNab, was arrested with one and a half gallons of moonshine liquor. He was taken in custody at McNab.

Will Carter, Fulton negro, was arrested with a half gallon of untaxed liquor.

Another raid netted a half gallon of moonshine in the possession of Lee Hilton of Fulton.

Participating in the raid were Sheriff Jim Bearden, Deputies Reginald Bearden, R. O. Robbins, Lee Deibel, Rev. Agents Ed Van Eickel, Carl Mitchell and Allen Chipp.

All the defendants will be given a hearing at 9 a. m. Friday before Justice of Peace Logan at Fulton.

Funds Are Asked for LaFayette County Dike

Stop-Gap Plan Is Favored Thursday in Senate Chamber

Roosevelt Is Willing to Accept Amendment by Borah

FILIBUSTER BROKEN

Now Up to House to Extend NRA Measure Until Next April

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Final congressional approval of an NRA extension resolution by Friday night was indicated Thursday when President Roosevelt told house members that he was willing to accept a measure passed earlier Thursday with Senator Borah's amendment to tighten anti-trust laws.

Senate Approves Plan
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Smashing the filibuster which saw Senator Huey P. Long, Louisiana Democrat, keep the senate awake all night, Democratic leaders succeeded early Thursday in gaining the chamber's approval of a stop-gap plan to extend the NRA until next April.

The resolution, which goes to the house for final approval to permit business men to make agreements covering labor conditions and unfair trade practices, is already prohibited by law.

Vote for approval of the resolution was 41 to 13.

Before the NRA plan was adopted, the senate tackled on Senator Borah's amendment which tightens the anti-trust laws.

Long Ses Talking Record
Washington—(AP)—At midnight Thursday, after Sen. Huey Long of Louisiana had talked for more than 13 hours, almost without interruption, veteran members of the United States Senate declared this filibuster—the greatest exhibition of physical endurance in the history of that body.

Democratic leaders held their followers in line for an all-night endurance contest in a determination to pass the resolution extending a remnant of NRA.

Long, husky but still shouting, held the weary and angry senate in session hour after hour as he talked on and on in an effort to force the adoption of a "rider" to the resolution. The rider would require senate confirmation of all federal employees receiving over $4,000 a year. This, he contended, would give him a weapon against the New Deal's anti-Long patronage appointments in Louisiana.

Senators Compelled to Listen
More than 50 sleepy-eyed senators loitered around the chamber or slumbered in their chairs while Long on certain crowded galleries with stories, wisecracks, quotations from the Bible and attacks on the administration.

In his first 13 hours of continuous speaking Long had only two five-minute respites.

Although some of the old filibusters had talked longer by the clock, senate historians said they had been relieved by frequent quorum calls and that some had mumbled as a means of relieving their voices. Long, however, exhibited all of his usual oratorical tricks, shouting, waving his arms and marching about the chamber.

He sipped milk or iced coffee occasionally between words to keep up his strength, but showed little sign of weariness.

Once when Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, made a point of order that Long was sitting down while another senator asked a question, Long leaped to his feet and danced a jig.

Parliamentary Tricks
All kinds of parliamentary tricks were used to trip him, but war of procedure such as ruined his last filibuster against a joint session for President Roosevelt's bonus veto. Long refused to let anything interfere with his speech.

Desperate, with the expiration of NRA approaching Sunday night, senate leaders determined to "break" the filibuster. Republican senators, feeling that the fight was largely a "patronage squabble" among the Democrats, started going home, but the Democrats held on.

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Cotton opened lower here Thursday, easing three to six points on reports of favorable weather in the belt. Dealers were comparatively active.

July opened at 11.12, October at 11.07, December at 11.11 and January at 11.17 and then sold off a few more points during the early trading.

A light trade was reported from Worth street with prices of cotton cloth holding steady.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Cotton futures edged barely steady, three to five cents decline on lower Liverpool cables and under moderate liquidation. 11.11, October 11.10, December 11.14, January 11.13, March 11.23.

Rabies Research Puts Dogs Under Control

In July, 1885, some 50 years ago, the famous French chemist, Louis Pasteur, gave the first Pasteur treatment to a human being.

Today, as the result of the investigations which he made, the disease called hydrophobia, or rabies, is under control, and the number of deaths and cases of serious disease, which used to be its inevitable toll, has diminished; in some countries they even have disappeared.

For instance, rabies, or hydrophobia, seldom if ever is seen in Great Britain, because of use of the Pasteur method and because there is a quarantine on dogs and other animals brought into that country.

The manner in which Pasteur made his famous discovery was relatively simple. As the result of his observations, he determined that the virus which causes death in hydrophobia attacks the nervous system.

He took the brain of a dog that had died of hydrophobia and inoculated the material under the skin of other animals. These animals then developed the disease. Pasteur, therefore, felt that the brain contained the poison.

He then tried to work out some way in which this poison or virus could be weakened. He found that this could be brought about by drying it in a tube and keeping it in that condition for some time.

This material was injected into dogs, and it was found that it would keep the dogs from getting hydrophobia when they were bitten by mad dogs.

Pasteur's first experiments were completed in May, 1884, but his work was confirmed by other scientists over a period of several months before he announced its completion and before the method became firmly established.

One day, about 50 years ago, a shepherd boy named Jean Baptiste Dujardin saw a mad dog attack a group of six children. He rushed to their aid and, in the struggle, was severely bitten. Pasteur gave the boy his unique treatment, and the youngster lived.

Today a monument stands outside the Pasteur Institute in Paris, erected to the memory of the boy who saved the lives of six children and who was first to prove the efficacy of the Pasteur treatment.

There are few patients to whom monuments have been erected in the history of medicine, and the monument to Jean Dujardin is probably the first of its kind.

When Society Lost Its Old Standards—Here's a New Novel About That Post-War Letdown

That pathetic and misguided post-war generation about which you have heard so much steps up to the rostrum once again—in "Besides, the Wench Is Dead," by Robert Ullin—to testify that the post-war decade was a time of lamentable confusion in which all moral standards collapsed.

This book, which would have seemed like quite a yarn if it had been printed back in 1925 or thereabouts, tells about the queer lives that were lived on the fringes of polite society in America in the early 1920's.

Its locale is Pittsburgh. We find ourselves in a weird sort of boarding house, whose owner is a comely young widow enamored of a prominent business man.

She represents the half-world, he represents the world of wealth and position; and in the way his world keeps lapping over into hers, with honest men consorting with prostitutes and innocent girls making chums of courtesans, we get a glimpse of an era which has discarded its old standards without bothering to formulate new ones.

Mr. Ullin does full justice to all this, telling a tale which points its moral with neat precision. My only objection to it is that the moral has been pointed so many times.

After all, we're pretty well aware of the ins and outs of the lost generation, by now. Isn't it about time to change the record? That objection aside, this novel is a good one. It is published by Doubleday, Doran and Co., and it sells for $2.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Disappointment Seldom Is as Dire as Frustration.

The word "frustration" seems to be misused a lot. Not so long ago a popular movie based on psychology used it over and over again in tracing back certain mental abnormalities of some of its characters.

In a way that is all right, too, because anyone who has been perpetually unhappy in early life and adolescence may be said to have been frustrated. Let us leave it here and talk about disappointment instead.

A four-year-old boy wanted a velocipede. He wanted it so much it seemed he would burst very soon if he didn't get it. His friends all had them, but he lived on a hill with no paved paths and his parents could not take the risk of consequences if he got his heart's desire. On account of other expenses, his parents decided it was stretching a point too far to get him a wheel he couldn't use just to save him disappointment.

When Dream Came True When they moved there was a grand place to ride outdoors. The new play-mates were busy with other things—tag, and swigs and mud pies. And as just one more trick life plays all of us, now the velocipede was possible and one fine day his father brought home a beauty.

Did Billy whoop and hurrah and turn somersaults? Absolutely not. He never said a word but got on his new treasure and rode it down the street. In a few minutes he came back, jumped off and went over to join his gang on Jimmie's porch.

The next day he rode it a couple of times, although to please his mother, but most of the time it stood neglected on somebody's pavement.

Now his mother wants to know if not getting his wheel when he so sorely craved it was frustration, and if there was any harm done. He is pretty smart, and now he is five. Old enough to remember about things he wanted and didn't get.

In a general way, yes, but not psychologically speaking. There was no harm done at all. Possession should not be confused with freedom of action. Billy could ride other children's steeds, but he wanted his own.

A Little of Each Is Best Anyway, if such things were lunacies because life is just one disappointment after another, and we have to get used to the idea that not one of our wishes come true. In fact, a few disappointments at the psychological moment, hard as they are to bear, are good for us. And to learn such lessons early gives us a certain degree of necessary for future content and happiness.

Naturally too-often repeated disappointment tends to embitter and stultify. Accumulated frustration from the disappointment angle, has a serious effect on normal development. A good average of fulfillment and of doing without makes the best mixture. Unhappiness can be bred by extremes, the extreme of getting too much and the extreme of getting too little. But let us not forget that satisfaction is the path to destruction. After all, certain hunger of the spirit are the salt of life and lie at the roots of ambition.

Our legislators forgot that one cannot compel devotion to the institutions of one's country by act of law.—President Stanley of Amherst, referring to teacher's oath of allegiance.

We are living in an age of change. Yet some things hold fast. Planes go 250 miles an hour, but the old Constitution still holds.—Mayor LaGuardia.

The Soviets are now one of the strongest powers in the world, economically, politically, and militarily.—D. V. Bogomolov, Soviet official.

The small cities and towns, the little business man, agriculture, and labor are the bone and sinew of this land. The NRA forgot that—Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

Military history is a graveyard of causes lost because of empty stomach or fear of them.—Maj. Gen. G. E. Leach, Illinois National Guard.

Not An Inspiring Background

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElliot © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 20, falls in love with MICHAEL HEATHEROE who owns a riding academy. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother is snobbish.

SALLY MOON, ideal counsellor, due to Sally's scheming. In spite of this, Michael asks Katharine to marry him and, impulsively, she agrees. The marriage takes place in an obscure little town. Katharine and Michael each go to their own homes. Almost immediately Michael learns he has inherited a fortune and title. He goes to New York to see the lawyer in charge and is injured in a traffic accident. Sally, unaware of Michael's marriage to Katharine, invites him to a ball and takes charge of the situation.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI

No woman in all the world had ever been so grievously humiliated. Katharine Strykhurst was certain of that.

An older—indeed, a wiser and less sensitive woman—would have taken affairs into her own hands. This brooding girl knew nothing to do but wait. She had no weapons with which to battle the problem that faced her. All she knew was that a gay, handsome, reckless youth had bidden her come and she had gone. Like the merest will-o'-the-wisp, he had followed him to marry him, only to be cast aside.

This much she knew, Michael Heatheroe had married her and then had gone away. The newspapers a day or two later had announced the news of his infidelity. Katharine had waited every day for a sign from him. None had come. Later she had heard, through some casual gossip, the story of his accident. "Now," she said to herself, with a fast-beating heart, "now at last he will send for me."

But there was only silence. Silence and the growing conviction of a fearful wrong done.

She had confided in Violet Mercer in the first flush of her anger. Violet had advised her to wait and see what happened. This Katharine had done. And nothing had happened. . . not a thing to reassure her. Not one message had come through from the man whose hand she had taken that day in a sleepy Connecticut town.

Her ring she had given to him. She had not a shadow of proof. Not, she reminded herself hotly and proudly, that she wanted any. Oh, but it had been a wanton joke to play on her! She who had kept herself so cool and remote all those years at last had "given her heart to the hawk."

She writhed at the thought. Violet watched her through the days with a growing anxiety. There was a savage pity in the eyes she turned to the fair-haired girl. Long ago Violet, too, had suffered from just such a hurt and it had embittered her earlier years. It was a grievous shame, thought the older woman.

THERE was such a thing as an ennuiment. Katharine mused dully one sunny afternoon.

"Of course, I wondered when you'd think of that," said Violet, consoling. She had not dared to mention the word herself.

"But the publicity!" Katharine, groaning, buried her face in her hands. To think that her defeat, her folly should be dragged into the open for all the world to see!

Violet suggested that these things were often handled discreetly so that no least word was printed in the newspapers. She had known once of such a case . . .

The girl, listening, lifted a haggard face. "Why don't you go to New Mexico, as Evelyn asked you to?" Violet asked reasonably. "Put the thing into the hands of some lawyer who can be trusted and go away and think no more of it."

It was, however, more easily said than done. Victor Strykhurst himself, Katharine reminded her friend, was a lawyer. To whom could they go? No one, assuredly, in their group of acquaintances.

"I'm afraid to trust anyone," Katharine said in a tone of bitterness that startled her hearer.

"Leave it to me," Violet said. Evelyn Vincent was going to New Mexico to stay with some friends who kept an informal sort of inn there. She had suggested weeks before that Katharine accompany her. At the time the plan had seemed far away and nebulous to the girl. Now it seemed a God-given way out of her difficulties.

She could bring her painting things, Evelyn said. The colors and shapes of things on the desert were truly divine.

Bertine vetoed the plan at once. Katharine, sick with fury and despair, turned to her father.

"Bertine doesn't want you to go off God-knows-where with this woman," he fumed. "We've never heard of her." Something in the white haggardness of the girl's face stirred him. He said suddenly, "You're not ill, are you?"

"No, no." She clasped and unclasped her hands. "But I feel I need and want a change. Miss Vincent is a friend of the Mercer's."

His face altered. "Whose?" "That nice woman in whose house I stayed when I . . ."

"Yes, yes. I remember." He said the words hastily. "You've made friends with them?"

KATHARINE'S darkening eyes roved to the window. The interview was exhausting all her feeble strength. She so seldom sought these rights. The hours from dark to daylight were her particular scourge, so difficult to be got through.

"I like her, yes. She's been very kind to me."

"Well—well." He promised to think it over. It was maddening, the girl decided, going out into the coolness of the garden, to be dependent on anyone. Next spring she would come into her mother's money. Then neither Bertine's whims nor her father's strictures should trouble her.

Next spring! At the thought of the hours, days and nights to be lived through, her spirit faltered and she groaned. A dark, slim alert figure appeared in the darkness of the rosebed.

"Oh, Dr. John! Where did you come from?"

He gave her a smile and a keener glance. "I thought I'd run in. Had to see a patient up the Post Road a mile or two."

She had not seen him in weeks. "You look a bit seedy." She roused herself. John was far too keen-eyed for her pleasure. The first thing she knew, she would be blurring out the whole wretched story to him.

"Oh, I'm fine, thanks." "You look it," he offered dryly. She leaned against the stone balustrade of the terrace, and he glanced at her with something like hunger in his eyes. Her sleepless nights, her lack of appetite had put a fine edge on her strong young beauty. She had a transparent look. There were black shadows smudged under her eyelids where they fluttered down to hide her look of sick despair.

"Zoe's back," Katharine said in the silence that followed. "Oh, is she?"

"She's splendid now," she went on, trying to make conversation. "She got through a bad time. She'll never have that particular hall to live through again," said the doctor cheerfully, knocking his pipe against the wall.

WHAT fools women are, thought Katharine drearily. Was it true that "love is of man's life's thing apart; 'tis woman's whole existence?"

She wanted to ask John about this. He was so calm and temperate and sure about things. But she didn't dare. One kind word would set her off. She'd felt so superior when Zoe was going through her difficulties. Kind, of course, no superior all the same. And John would be horribly disappointed in her if he knew what a crashing fool she had been!

So the moment passed and Katharine kept silent, and half a mile away in an ugly house with mutilated windows a dark-haired girl stared before the mirror and slyly hid away a plain gold wedding band.

Up in the hills near a shabby shingled house a young man was dazed in the kitchen garden where chickens pecked at dry grass and horses thrust their noses inquiringly over a gate. The young man felt lost and lonely and all at sea. He rubbed the back of his head thoughtfully as though trying to remember something he could not quite take in . . .

Fate was weaving a net intricately about all of them. The girl with the crystal carapace was only a puppet, although she fancied herself a great actress in the drama. The physician who watched the fair-haired girl with troubled eyes was conscious of a shadow lying between them. He had had a declaration on his lips for weeks; he did not dare to utter it now.

This was only an intermission in the drama. If you had listened closely you might have heard the tuning up of instruments for the third act, life being stranger and more cruel and beautiful often times than the theater.

Rowe Celebrates by Beating Boston

Allows Only Three Hits First Time Out as Father; Wins, 4-1

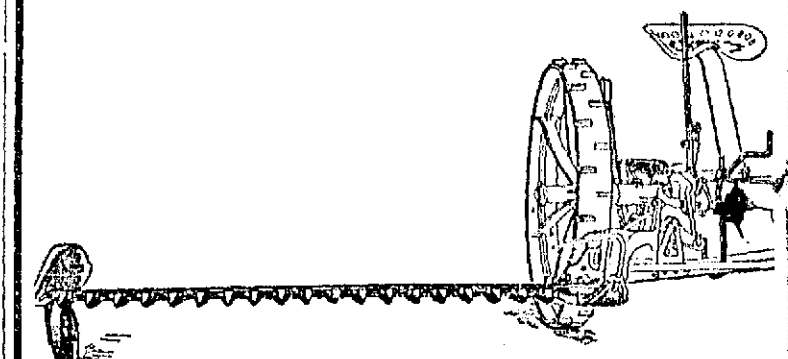

DEROIT, (AP)—Lynwood Rowe, making his first appearance as a father, held the Boston Red Sox to three hits Wednesday while his Detroit Tiger teammates joined in the celebration by a 4-1 victory. A walk and two hits in the first inning gave Boston its only run. In the second inning, the schoolboy settled down and rebuffed the next 19 batters. The Tigers nicked Welch for seven hits in seven innings and got to Wallberg for two hits and a run in the eighth. Cochran and Gehring scored on Greenberg's single in the first inning. Fox scored mother in the seventh after a walk, two safe bunts and a long fly. Two hits and a sacrifice ended the fourth in the eighth.

The Price of Joy

You don't begrudge the labor when there are in bloom; You don't recall the dreary days that you won't you perfume; You don't recall a single care You spent upon the garden there; And all the toil Of tilling soil Is quite forgot the day the first Pink rosebuds into beauty burst. You don't begrudge the trials grim when joy has come to you; You don't recall the dreary days when all your skies are blue; And though you've trod a weary mile The ache of it was all worth while; And all the things And bitter flings Are wiped away upon the day Success comes dancing down the way. —E. A. G.

Mrs. E. O. Wingfield was hostess to the members of the Wednesday afternoon at her home on North Pine street, as special compliment to her sister, Mrs. William Stannus of Little Rock.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Pankey of Emmet announce the marriage of their daughter, Daisy Merline to Rany R. Garland, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thos. L. Garland of Emmet. The ceremony was held by the Rev. George Myers, schoolmate of the groom, on June 10, at 6 o'clock in Little Rock, in the presence of the immediate families and a few friends. The nuptial music was played by Miss Elsie Gentry, who used Laheng's Bridal Chorus for the processional and playing "Indian Love Call" during the taking of the vows. The bride wore a modish frock of pink georgette, with accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bride finished high school in Emmet and attended school in Texas. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hendrix college, Conway. For several years he has been closely associated with Y. M. C. A. work and is past state president of that organization. After a two week's wedding trip to New Orleans and the Gulf coast, Mr. and Mrs. Garland will be at home in Emmet where Mr. Garland is associated with the Emmet Mercantile Co.

Miss Frances Snyder had as guests for the C. of C. convention, Misses Cora and Louise Burton and Miss Sue McClendon of Lewisville.

The new Hotel Henry and Diamond Cafe held "open house" on Wednesday from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to midnight. The guests were greeted in the lobby by Dr. Henry. The lobby was a veritable bower of lovely flowers, well-wishers, from a host of interested friends. The beautiful arrangement of flowers formed a most artistic setting for the handsome furnishings. The register was in charge of P. A. Enloe, who will be associated with Dr. Henry in the management of the hotel. The lobby was so attractively furnished with comfortable chairs, ceiling fans and those personal touches, which add so much to the beauty and comfort of a public place, that it was with reluctance we mounted the handsomely carpeted stairway for an inspection of the beautifully furnished bedrooms, with connecting bath, fans and telephone, where Mrs. Henry was dispensing hospitality. After a pleasant visit with Mrs. Henry and an inspection of the comforts and conveniences arranged for hotel guests, hospitality was dispensed by Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Jarvis, who are in charge of the attractive Diamond cafe, located on the south side of the ground floor. Beautiful flowers were again in evidence, as an expression of good will and best wishes of special friends. The decorations in the cafe were very attractive.

Dealer Reports New Gulf-lube Is Popular With Motorists

"We knew that there would be more touring in 1935 than in 1934," states S. Bates, Gulf distributor. "But we dealers didn't realize that it would be stepped up so much through the introduction of the new Gulf-lube oil which has premium quality, yet sells for only a quarter."

"Now that the motorist has found that his quarter is better than it was a year ago, he's more willing to bundle the family car and head for distant points of interest. And that applies not only to the fellow with the expensive car but to the man with the lower-priced automobile."

"This situation is certainly pleasing to all service station dealers who handle Gulf-lube. We've been wishing for a premium quality oil at a popular price for years. I'm sure pleased that their chemists and engineers have perfected this new Multi-sol process."

The Multi-sol process to which this local dealer refers is a new refining method. It is now performing its "magic" 24 hours a day in a great refinery unit which has been completed at Philadelphia. The action of the Multi-sol process is so automatic and ingenious as to seem uncanny. Almost without human aid, chemical "policemen" separate the desirable from the undesirable parts of the oil. And when the process is completed, a pure lubricant remains, with all the trouble-making elements removed.

Marries Quickly After Divorced

Pearl Buck Married to Publisher; Both Get Divorce Decrees

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—Pearl Buck, the novelist, was honeymooning Wednesday after a double quick Reno marital shift which made her the bride of Richard J. Walsh, New York publisher.

They left Reno by automobile immediately after Tuesday night's marriage ceremony, which was performed almost before the ink was dry on divorce decrees freeing them from former mates.

Mrs. Ruth A. Walsh, who divorced the publisher while Mrs. Buck was obtaining legal severance from John L. Buck, witnessed the marriage and signed the newlyweds on their way with best wishes.

Mrs. Walsh, who had lived at a Lake Tahoe cottage with Mrs. Buck for six weeks while they were establishing Nevada residences for their divorcees, planned to leave for New York by train Wednesday.

Both women charged their husbands, to whom they had been married for years, with cruelty and appeared to support their complaints at private court hearings which required less than 10 minutes. Property rights and custody of children were settled through agreements, the terms of which were kept secret.

The novelist, whose books are based on her experiences and observations while serving as a missionary in China, married her first husband in La Grangeville, N. Y., in 1917. They have two children, Carol, 15, and Janice, 10.

Workers of Fireworks Plant Victims of Tragedy

ELKTON, Md.—(AP)—One person was burned to death and six others were injured, one seriously, in a fireworks plant explosion early Wednesday in the second floor of a garage building where they were employed during the rush season.

The dead—Miss Thelma Dunlay, 27, of North Elk, Md.

The injured: Mrs. Catherine Daniels, 27, Elkton, badly burned over the body, and not expected to live.

Mrs. Madeline Stewart, 26, Elk Mills, fracture of the leg and first and second degrees burns on the leg and face.

Mrs. Edith Harvey, 30, North East, burns on the leg and arm.

Howard Ash, 26, Iron Hill, burns on the arms.

Mrs. Reba Cline, 33, of Elkton, cuts on the knee.

Eugene Puffy, 20, cut on the foot. The garage was being used by the Triumph Fuse and Fireworks company as an emergency plant during the rush of turning out Fourth of July fireworks. It is in the yard of J. Ben Decker, an official of the company, which operates a plant nearby and in harmony with the permanent furnishings. Hot coffee and cake were served during the afternoon and evening, closing with a delightful dance.

Under the supervision of Miss Beryl Henry chairman of the Board of Christian Education, a daily vacation Bible school will open promptly at 9 o'clock, Monday, June 17, at the First Methodist church and will continue each morning from 9 to 11, for two weeks. The classes will be formed of primary, juniors and intermediates. As a special feature Mrs. Robert Anwell of Shreveport will teach clay moulding. All other denominations are invited to attend.

Mrs. D. G. Fulmer and daughters, Martha Ann and Mary Ellen, of Little Rock are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Card and other relatives.

Mrs. Guy Card and little daughter, Jo Ann, were Wednesday visitors with relatives in Little Rock.

Girl Scout Troop No. 1 will meet at 3:30 Friday afternoon at First Methodist church.

Milk Products to Move Freely

Invisible Barriers Are Raised, Survey of AP Shows

CHICAGO—(AP)—Invisible barriers against the free flow of dairy and agricultural products among the sister states have been raised, a survey by the Associated Press indicated Wednesday.

The check on milk and nearly everything that grows varies widely except in its purpose, which is under the constitutional guarantee of right to protect the health of its citizens. The checks range from requiring that products for importation meet the standards of the state of origin to an absolute embargo.

Alcoholic liquors are an exception, being subjected to almost as many sets of regulations as there are states.

Georgia appears to be the only state which has an embargo on liquor, while permitting its use within the state. Georgia requires under its recent law that only wine made from Georgia products and fermented in the state may be sold or possessed there.

Maryland prohibits the importation of dead wild game in closed season, and along with other seaboard states restricts entry of certain seafoods to those that meet approval.

A demand that milk and other dairy products brought in from the outside meet the standards required of dairy-men within the state is generally made. Some states, particularly New York and New Jersey, hold the right to bar dairy products from other states where inspection shows the dairies unsatisfactory.

Georgia places an embargo on farm produce if its home grown crops are sufficient to meet its needs.

Ohio refuses to register new automobiles purchased by Ohioans in neighboring states unless its three per cent sales tax is paid.

Artificially colored oranges are barred from Pennsylvania, which offers a reciprocal agreement on cattle and nursery products.

Baine bars green corn on the cob, along with certain flowers and plants. Corn, incidentally, has been the object of numerous embargoes in efforts to halt spread of the corn borer pest.

New Hampshire, in company with most of the states, has a strict bar on entry of diseased cattle.

A certificate of inspection is required for importation of cattle and various plants into North Carolina, but milk requirements are fixed by a standard ordinance in 102 municipalities.

The District of Columbia bars no products, but requires that milk meet its standards.

The federal office of education reports that approximately one-fourth of the nation's total population attends school daily; 30,550,000 students are enrolled in fulltime day schools.

employing approximately 300 persons. Deputy Sheriff J. E. Racine said a thorough investigation would be made on the explosion, the second fatal one of its kind in this vicinity within ten days.

Negroes to Serve as Jurors at Mobile

MOBILE, Ala.—(AP)—Trials of two negroes on charges of murder Wednesday were postponed in circuit court, pending reinstatement, when their lawyer raised the question of absence of negroes from the jury rolls of the county in demurrers to the indictments.

The lawyer, Miss Rosa Gerhardt, asked the question on which death sentences of two of nine negro defendants in the "Scottsboro case" were reversed by the United States Supreme Court in behalf of R. P. Vaughn and Frank Millhouse, charged with murdering Neil Searns, a grocer, in a $10 holdup.

Solicitor Bart B. Chamberlain announced that instead of arguing the question which he said the United States Supreme Court had settled, he would ask for new indictments from a new grand jury next month. It was said that additional names would be placed in the jury boxes and that some would negroes.

Mrs. Mark Reed and children of Minden, La., spent last Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Reed.

Rev. Eugene Moore and wife and Mrs. Silas Sanford of Hope were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. McWilliams last Tuesday.

Court Reverses Death Verdict

Case Remanded Because Jurors Talked to Outsiders

AUSTIN, Texas.—(AP)—The court of criminal appeals Wednesday reversed and remanded the case of Joe Bailey Avirett, sentenced in McLennan county to death for murder.

A death sentence assessed W. D. May in Tarrant county for murder of Jack Sturdivant in July, 1933, was made final as the court denied May's motion for a rehearing.

Avirett was convicted in the death of James Malcolm Stewart of Katy last November 17 on a highway leading from Waco. Trial court errors advanced as ground for reversal included acts of jurors in talking to outside persons after having been impaneled, and refusal to admit defense testimony concerning the conduct of the deceased.

The 20th century did not begin with the year 1900. It began January 1, 1901.

Mahoney Free for Indefinite Period

Governor Grants New Furlough for Former Pulaski Clerk

LITTLE ROCK.—W. H. Mahoney, former Pulaski county chancery clerk, under five-years sentence for embezzlement of public funds, was granted an indefinite furlough Wednesday by Governor Futrell.

A short furlough was given Mahoney several weeks ago to enable him to appear as a witness at the trial of W. T. Dorough, a former deputy in his office, who was acquitted by a jury in First Division Circuit Court on charges growing out of the shortage in the chancery clerk's office.

The furlough was extended 10 days to permit publication of notice that an application for an indefinite furlough or pardon would be filed with the governor. The clemency order issued said no protests had reached the governor's office following publication of the notice.

The order said clemency was recommended by Attorney General Carl E. Bailey, who was prosecuting attorney when Mahoney was sentenced; Associate Justices E. L. McInnes and T. M. Mahaffy, former Gov. George W. Donaghey, Mayor Overman of Little Rock, Mayor U. E. Moore of North Little Rock, several other officials, peace officers and citizens, and all members of the Grand Jury which indicted Mahoney.

Mahoney entered a plea of "technically guilty" to charges of embezzlement of public funds while he was chancery clerk.

It has been found that people eat more nuts during the cooler months than during summer. Nuts are very heavy in calories and proteins, cold weather requisites.

The largest open pit iron mine in the world is located at Hibbing, Minn. The mine is 350 feet deep, 2 1/2 miles long and has an area estimated at 1070 acres.

DODGE ECONOMY CAR SWEEPS HOPE

"The new Dodge is certainly breaking sales records all over the country. Right here in Hope I'm having a banner year," declares B. R. (Barney) Hamm, your neighbor and Dodge dealer since 1924.

"Style . . . size . . . comfort . . . safety—Dodge has all rivals beat," says Mr. Hamm. "But the big thing that is making Dodge so popular is economy. For the first time in history, here's a big car that folks actually say is cheaper to run than small, competitive cars. "People I've sold Dodge cars to come in to tell me of the wonderful gas mileage they're getting—some more than 20 miles to the gallon, and how they're saving money on oil and all running costs."

"Anyone who is interested in theft is invited to come in and talk to me. I've got a mighty interesting and important story to tell them about the economy of the big, new Dodge which delivers here for just a few dollars more than the lowest-priced cars."

Arkansas Rivers

flood level there Wednesday. A predicted rise of six-tenths foot for George town will send the river to 26 feet, which is about five feet above flood level.

Tuesday's rainfall caused rises at some points with Black Rock, where the precipitation totaled 1.02 inches, getting a rise of a foot. Even heavier rains fell at Pocahontas and Mammoth Springs while lighter showers were reported throughout the state.

A fight to save the Stephens-Keel levee near Newport was believed successful as the White dropped eight-tenths of a foot to a level of 28.4 feet. Cole predicted the fall there would continue.

Fearing that heavy rains in the Kansas basin may extend into Eastern Oklahoma, W. C. Hickman of the United States weather bureau was apprehensive that another rise might result in the Arkansas river which has already swollen over its banks six times this spring.

The slight rise expected at Little Rock will probably prolong the inundation of lowlands near there.

steadily speed of 195 to 116 miles an hour, the six-man crew worked just as steadily at various tasks, particularly one concerned with the effect of a "cold front" in the atmosphere on the plane's operation.

Officials explained this as a condition caused by the influx of cold air from the arctic down to the mid-Pacific area.

No forecasts have been made as to the time the clipper will arrive in Hawaii, where it is reported to remain for two days before making the 1235-mile hop to Midway.

When the clipper made the same flight, its first, last April, 17 hours and 44 minutes elapsed before it was sighted over Honolulu. On the return trip a few days later, more than 20 hours were required.

knows of such a place, would notify me.

When any one is bothered with mosquitoes in any part of town please notify us promptly and we will send our inspectors and try to locate the breeding places.

The railroad has spent quite a good deal of money furnishing the oil and the federal pay roll last week for 17 men to do this work for the town amounted to $105.20, and if the people of our town will do their part we can get rid of the mosquitoes here.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—Lobbyists seeking to defeat or modify the Economic Security bill took a new hope after the chief target is the compulsory contributory old age insurance provision, under which employers as well as employees would be taxed at a gradually increasing rate, culminating with 3 per cent on wages and payrolls for each group after 1948.

Certain very large corporations, actively aided by firms which make a business of setting up private retirement and insurance systems, are pushing propaganda for exemptions.

They would prefer to set up systems of their own, which would be less expensive and less effective, at the same time strengthening their "company unions."

Both the Pennsylvania Self-Insurance Association, composed of such corporations, and the Medical Society of the State of New York, which fears a tendency toward health insurance, have circulated a pamphlet called "Will America Copy Germany's Mistakes?" by a German who purports to show how social insurance failed in the Reich.

Officials of the president's Committee on Economic Security unite in branding the pamphlet a tissue of untruth.

Lobbyists Juggle Figures. Other groups have issued estimates of cost in which the figures assume astronomical proportions. Some of these figures are obviously exaggerated. Others are guesswork.

Lobbyists seek to persuade senators from the poorer states that their states will have to contribute from 12 to 18 times as much as the cost will actually be.

Backstage efforts are being made to convert Secretary of Labor Perkins to wide, vitiating exemptions which would permit employers to save large sums by ignoring older workers—especially provided for in the bill—and place a premium on discharge of workers at relatively early ages.

Lobbying is concentrated on the senate in an effort to amend or block the measure, which passed the house by a huge majority.

Many know whether to take seriously the recent reports that Chairman Joe Kennedy of the Securities and Exchange Commission is about to

Senator Robinson Flays Republicans

Not Conceivable That the Country Will Turn Back to Hoover

JONESBORO, Ark.—(AP)—Senate Democratic Leader Joe T. Robinson Wednesday night lashed out at the Republican "Gross Roots" rally at Springfield, Ill., branded the Republicans as "emphatically obstructionist," and declared "it is not conceivable that the country will turn from Roosevelt back to Hoover."

Guest at a banquet of the Arkansas Pharmaceutical Association, in convention here, Senator Robinson turned a sharply worded indictment on the Springfield gathering and in a speech prepared for the occasion said:

"The proceedings of the Middle West regional Republican convention disclose the fact that the Republican party have merely become an obstructionist organization."

"The only constructive suggestion that the convention made in addition to those which are embraced in the Roosevelt administration policies is the often repeated demand for the balancing of the budget. The budget cannot be immediately balanced unless the various forms of relief now being carried on be abandoned. This cannot be done just now without danger to millions of our people who have not yet been able to obtain employment."

"The revenues have increased during the last year so that surplus exists insofar as the expenses of the government, not including expenditures for relief, are concerned."

Says Business Reviving. "The enormous increase in income tax returns, representing more than $500,000,000 comparing the present fiscal year with the last, shows that earnings are increasing and business is reviving. Many other evidences support the conclusion."

"The salient points in the platform adopted by the 'Gross Roots' convention of Republicans include endorsement of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, also the policy of the Roosevelt administration relating to collective bargaining, the abolishment of child labor and the sweat shop."

"The principal other declarations in the aforesaid platform are general and refer to the preservation of the constitution, the maintenance of the liberties and rights of the citizens, and the support of fundamental American institutions. To all these the Democratic party devotes its efforts. "The Republicans have nothing new to suggest. They propose to decide policies. They are at a loss to know what to do, just as they were during the period that preceded March 4, 1933. Then they were in power in every department of the government and they signally failed to demonstrate either a grasp of the problems before the country or the slightest readiness to deal with them effectively.

"Even though the Democrats have made some mistakes, we are striving to the best of our ability to safeguard the public welfare. It is not conceivable that the country will turn from Roosevelt back to Hoover."

There is no such thing as a weather vane; the instruments popularly called by that name are wind vanes indicating direction of the wind and nothing more.

MOTHER ADVISED TAKING CARDUI

"I had a severe pain in my side and felt nervous all the time," writes Mrs. Floyd Ferrell, of Thomaston, N. C. "At times, I felt so weak and had a dull, sleepy feeling, not energy enough to do my work. I had been advised by my mother to take Cardui, as she had obtained good results from using it. I took three bottles of Cardui. It increased my appetite, built my strength up, helped my nerves and the pain in my side."

There are many similar cases. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.
